The screenshot shows the course page on the edX platform. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the edX logo, a search bar, and links for 'edX For business', 'Sign in', and 'Register for free'. Below this is a promotional banner for AI and tech skills. The main header includes the course title 'University of Cambridge: Digital Platforms in Performance' and a brief description: 'Advance your digital story-telling prowess and learn how to create interactive gameplay scripts for video games, radio drama scripts for radio and/or podcasting, as well as content for your YouTube channel. Learn to transfer your skill as a dramatist into these innovative mediums.' A secondary description states: 'This course will broaden your understanding of how to start a career successfully as a digital storyteller, as well as offer you insights in how to maximise and enjoy the processes of your personal creativity.' Course details include '4 weeks' (8-10 hours per week), 'Self-paced' (Progress at your own speed), and 'Free' (Optional upgrade available). A red 'Enroll' button is visible. Below the button, there is a checkbox for email notifications and a navigation menu with links for 'About', 'What you'll learn', 'Instructors', 'FAQs', and 'Ways to enroll'. The 'About this course' section at the bottom notes that the course is part of the University of Cambridge's MicroMaster's program in Writing for Performance and Entertainment Industries.
